Quartermaster Corps Achievements Praised

By MAJ. GEN. B. F. CHEATHAM,
The Quartermaster General, U. S. A.
TODAY, the 153d anniversary of the founding of the Quartermaster Corps, I take occasion to greet the Corps through the Army and Navy Journal, and to extend to them my appreciation for the excellent cooperation I have received from the officers and men in trying to serve the Army.

One of our main objects at present is to carry on the program which will provide adequate housing for the Army when completed. With the cooperation of Congress, it has been possible to alleviate deplorable conditions at a number of posts. We have obligated to date $10,380,000 which sum was authorized and appropriated for by the past two Congresses.

Housing Plans Made.

The recent session of Congress authorized the appropriation of approximately $38,000,000 and we are hopeful that a sufficient portion of this sum will be included in the appropriations for the fiscal year 1929 to enable us to provide for badly needed construction at the Service Schools, large Army posts and Air Corps field.

The first measure which was enacted
last session, known as the "Air Corps Building Bill," authorized the expenditure of $6,550,000. The main item in this bill calls for $700,000 for barracks, $156,000 for N. C. O. quarters and $1,020,000 for officers' quarters to establish a new Primary Flying School at San Antonio, Tex., on 2,400 acres of land offered to the U. S. there for that purpose. Included in this bill are the following other major items: $410,000 for construction of a landing field at Albrook Field, Panama; $294,000 for construction at Mitchel Field, N. Y.; $610,000 for construction at Kelly Field, Tex.; $231,000 for construction at Maxwell Field, Ala.;
$101,000 for school buildings at March Field; $108,000 for officers' quarters at Schofield Barracks, T. H.; $825,000 for construction of Cadet barracks at West Point, and $310,000 for construction at Walter Reed Hospital.

Includes 32 Posts.

The second measure, which was composed of two bills, carried $19,764,000 authorization providing for more than 32 posts.

In reference to the Army housing projects, the Quartermaster Corps is

National Defense Discussed at Convention

By JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Kansas City, Mo. (Special).—This has been an important and interesting convention from the point of view of those concerned about national defense. Strong underlying sentiment developed for the nomination of Gen. John J. Pershing, who was in no sense a candidate and who has been abroad for some months. If Secretary Hoover had been beaten, the General unquestionably would have received not only serious consideration but would have been asked to be the standard bearer of the party. The delegates representing the farm section of the country—the great Middle West—made no secret of their intention to support him, once the candidates for whom they were instructed were eliminated, and they expected them to be promptly. In the East a large number of delegates declared their purpose to support the General.
Hoover, however, by reason of the campaign he conducted throughout the winter and the support of every member of the Cabinet, particularly Secretary Mellon, walked away with the prize.

Harbord's Name Mentioned.

Figuring in the discussion as to the Vice Presidency were such men of national prominence as Maj. Gen. James G.
Harbord, retired, president of the Radio Corporation of America. This distinguished officer has many friends among the delegates, all of whom recognize his ability, his standing, and remember the superb service he rendered during the World War. Hanford MacNider, who was Assistant Secretary of War, was on the job assiduously seeking the Vice Presidential nomination. He lined up some boosters, principally veterans, and came to Kansas City hopeful. That is as far as he got. Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who was Assistant Secretary of the Navy, was more astute. He gained considerable support, especially among the leaders.

National Defense Workers Active.

And while the talk circled around candidacies, there were at work a number of men interested in national defense, such men as Secretary of War Davis, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, Senator Bingham, of Connecticut; Senator David A.
Reed, of Pennsylvania; Ex-Senator James
W. Wadsworth, Lieut. Col. John Thomas Taylor, O. R. C., who represented the American Legion; Col. D. John Markey, Maryland National Guard, the editor of the Army and Navy Journal and others.
The work was comparatively easy in view of the fact there were more than 200 delegates and their associates who saw service during the World War. These men realized, but not in a well-informed way, the defense needs of the nation. Immediately after the convention assembled, Past American Legion Commanders Savage and Quinn, the former a delegate from Illinois, the latter a delegate from California, called a meeting of the veterans who also were delegates. When the meeting assembled, organization was effected by the election of Congressman A. Piatt Andrew, of Massachusetts, as chairman, and Col. D. John Markey, of Maryland, as secretary. The meeting instructed the following delegates, who are also the representatives of their respective States on the Resolutions Committee, to present the resolutions which were approved at this meeting:

Thomas P. Chaney, of New Hampshire;
John J. Sullivan, of Washington; Wil-

New Marine Force to Be Taken From Fleet

APPROXIMATELY 1,000 officers and men of the Marine Corps are under orders to go to Nicaragua to augment the force of 4,000 Marines there in assisting in the control of the Nicaraguan elections in October. They will relieve some of the patrols which will go to Leon to study Spanish and familiarize themselves with Nicaraguan customs in connection with the election work.

The additional force is being sent in compliance with a request from Brig.
Gen. Frank R. McCoy, U. S. A., designated by President Coolidge to supervise the elections. He asked that they be sent in order that some of the troops now in Nicaragua may be trained in Spanish and learn the Nicaraguan laws in order to more effectively carry out the supervision duties.

From Detachments Afloat.

All of the force will be drawn from detachments afloat. Detachments from the battleships New Mexico, Pennsylvania and Idaho have already sailed from Puget Sound, on the ammunition ship Nitro. The detachment from the Texas was dropped at Corinto on Wednesday.
Other detachments will be taken out of San Pedro, Calif., by some vessel of the Battle Fleet, starting probably July 5.

The force will consist of 958 men and 28 officers. Three officers apiece will be assigned from detachments on the Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and California, one from the tender ship Procyon and two with those of the remainder of the detachments.

Detachments making up the force are as follows: Texas, 95; California, 95;
West Virginia, 79; Pennsylvania, 69;
New York, 77; Arizona, 74; New Mexico,
67; Idaho, 71; Mississippi, 72; Colorado, 69; Maryland, 82; Tennessee, 74; fleet base force, Procyon, 34.

Officers Are Listed.

The senior officers detailed with the detachments are Lt. Col. G. M. Kincaid, from the battleship California; Maj.
W. G. Emory, from the Pennsylvania, and Maj. A. A. Cunningham, from the West Virginia. Other officers taken from the vessels of the Battle Fleet are as follows:

Texas, Capt. T. E. Kendrick, 2nd Lt.
T. C. Perrin; California, Capt. A. H.
Noble, 2nd Lt. A. W. Ellis; West Vir-

Editors Discuss Legislative Outlook and Congress' Achievements

DESPITE the Navy Building Program and Army Promotion legislation pending for the next session of Congress which convenes in December, the newspapers throughout the country in commenting on unfinished business and the accomplishments of the recent session, express the opinion that Congress as a whole "did pretty well." They point out that legislation blocked by "filibustering" in the Senate can be disposed of next session since all measures retain their status on the Calendar. Failure to enact the Navy Program bill is criticized on the ground that it needlessly endangers our program for national security.

THE St. Louis Globe-Democrat (Republican), discussing appropriations provisions, states: "Related to this are the appropriations for new Army buildings and for increased aviation development, and long delayed appropriations for the much-needed housing for the Army posts. In connection with these measures are the provisions for more hospital construction for afflicted veterans of the War, and for the relief of disabled emergency officers. That the very moderate program of cruiser construction the House adopted failed to become a law is the one tragic incident of the session."

THE St. Paul Pioneer Press (Independent Republican) comments: "Well done, Congress." The Pioneer Press writes: "Considering the proximity of a national campaign, the session of Congress just closed made an excellent record. Ordinarily in a campaign year Congress is so busy playing politics it has little time or inclination for the serious business of making good laws."

THE Louisville Courier-Journal (Democratic) cryptically remarks: "A lull comes as the stormy sea ends; the lusty winds of the final filibuster die down, and the armada of the Big Navy program lies wrecked upon Muscle Shoals, smashed against Boulder Dam or aground in the Mississippi flats. A fleet of barges for domestic river commerce, credits at low rate of interest for building up the Merchant Marine, millions for internal improvements and commerce carriers, but not a cent for 'defense,' as the advocates of the 'World's greatest navy, by Jingo!' term it."

THE Atlanta Constitution (Democratic) remarks: "While the first and long session of the Seventieth Congress was stormy at times, and set a new record in overriding executive vetoes, on the whole it accomplished much good. Appraised without bias, the session was the most constructive, perhaps, of any since the Republicans assumed control of both branches eight years ago. * * * It is to be regretted that the naval program did not go through, but the immutable position of the big Navy advocates is almost wholly to blame."

THE Kansas City Star (Independent) thinks that it was "not such a bad Congress." The Star says: "Congress hasn't performed as well as it should in many ways. It has done some things it ought not to have done and has left undone some things it ought to have done. But we really haven't it in our heart to speak up severely regarding a Congress that put the Missouri River on the map, enacted the barge line bill, and instituted the great plans for flood prevention."

Pay Stoppage Cases Won

THE Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, after having held the cases for several months on account of the volume of business before it, on June 12 notified Gen. Samuel T. Ansell, counsel for the officers concerned, to draft the decrees in the several Pay Stoppage cases presented by him on February 3, last, the court having in each instance decided in favor of the officer suffering the stoppage. There were five of these cases, involving a total stoppage of $3,987.96. In three of them the War Department ordered the stoppage at the instance of the Comptroller General and in two of them proceeded upon its own initiative, claiming in these two cases that "negligence" of these officers had resulted in loss to the Government.

Counsel for the Comptroller General advanced several new defenses, among them being (1) that the liability of the disbursing officers and their sureties had been discharged by reason of the collection from the officer, leaving the officer the only person to be looked to; (2) that, otherwise, it would be necessary to "re-settle" the disbursing officer's accounts; (3) that the more recent statutes authorizing the Comptroller General to pass certain allowances held by him unlawfully made, was tantamount to a denial of the court's jurisdiction; and (4) that the stoppage having been made two or three years ago, the officers were guilty of laches and had slept on their rights. The new defenses did not influence the Court.

The cases are as follows:

Capt. J. W. Orcutt.

In July, 1925, the Comptroller General reported to the Chief of Finance that this officer had been overpaid salary to the amount of $847.33 and the Department decided that he had also been overpaid $20 more. The "overpayment" was the result of the Comptroller General's decision that this officer's original appointment in the Regular Army as second lieutenant and subsequent resignation and reappointment in a grade above second lieutenant after an interval in civil life entitled him not to the third pay period, but to the second only. The court ruled that whatever might be the correct view of the pay period in which this officer had been placed his pay could not be stopped by Executive action.

Lieutenant Colonel Loud.

The Comptroller General notified the Department that this officer had been overpaid $436.80 dependent mother allowance and the Department thereupon issued its stoppage order. The full amount was detained from the pay of this officer ending with the month of September, 1926.

Counsel for the Comptroller General emphasized the "laches" of this officer in not bringing earlier action and contended his delay constituted acquiescence in the unlawful stoppage.

Maj. Thomas H. Emerson.

Prior to April, 1925, the Comptroller General directed a stoppage of the pay of this officer in the amount of $919.20 an alleged overpayment to that of dependent mother allowances for the period July 1, 1923, to June 20, 1924, and accordingly the total sum was withheld from his pay. An additional defense was made in this case on the ground that the decision of a Federal Court in Georgia, where this officer had previously brought suit against the disbursing officer, dismissing his petition for lack of jurisdiction of that court, was res adjudicata. The attorney for the officer pointed out that, whatever the jurisdiction of the District Courts of the United States in such suits, there was no question but that the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia had unlimited common law jurisdiction of the writ of mandamus and equity jurisdiction of mandatory injunction against the heads of the Federal Departments and the officers on duty therein in the District of Columbia.

Capt. John Lloyd.

On September 2, 1925, the Secretary of War ordered this officer's pay stopped in the sum of $904.79 and in accordance with a recommendation by the Inspector General of the Army that the plaintiff be administratively held responsible for certain overpayments resulting from the fraudulent raising of the clothing accounts of certain soldiers returned from the Panama Canal Zone for discharge at Fort Hamilton in December, 1925. The Inspector General based his recommendation that this officer should be held liable upon what was termed his "negligence." The Department based its view of negligence upon certain verbal orders alleged to have been given this officer by another officer. The officer insisted that he never received any such orders, that he was not negligent, that he performed his duty properly and in the only possible way and that there was no loss due to any action of his. The Department, however, ordered the stoppage. Upon the trial the Department made no defense and a decree pro confesso was directed.

Technical Sgt. Harold Hart.

In July, 1927, the Secretary of War upon the recommendation of the Chief of Finance notified the sergeant and his commanding officers of a loss of $724.51 alleged to have been sustained by the Government in the Commissary at Fort McIntosh due to the sergeant's alleged neglect of duty, and ordered a stoppage to be collected at the rate of $64.40 per month. It appeared in the petition that the sergeant was tried for conversion of the Government property alleged to have been found short and was acquitted of the charge and all specifications in December, 1925, and soon thereafter was discharged with character "excellent" and re-enlisted for assignment in the Hawaiian Department. In 1927, a survey made on the accountability of 1st

(Please turn to Page 843.)

THE Portland Morning Oregonian (Independent Republican) notes: "A naval construction bill, designed to make good the deficiencies that have accumulated since the Washington treaty took effect, was cut in half by the House and hung suspended in the Senate on adjournment day. For this the pacifists take whatever credit is due. On paper our Navy is equal to that of Britain, but in fact it is far inferior in all except capital ships, and as to some types of ships is inferior to that of Japan. The United States is in no position for further progress in disarmament, when its Navy is already deprived of the ships that it would sacrifice in a match with other powers scrapping ships."

THE Philadelphia Inquirer (Republican) makes a resume of the 70th Congress: "The failure of the Senate to pass the Navy bill cannot be regarded as a rejection of the measure, for no vote was taken; it simply fell by the wayside. This was one of the results of the filibuster. It is decidedly unfortunate that a bill affecting the national security was thus neglected."

THE New York World (Democratic), on "Smothering the Navy Program," says: "The truth of the matter is that the Administration has failed to carry through a naval program because it never had a program in which it wholeheartedly believed. There has never been any evidence that the Coolidge Administration had any clear policy about the Navy. It has given half-hearted and left-handed approval to two or three ambiguous proposals, with the result that nobody knows today what Mr. Coolidge really thinks about the needs of the Navy. He has given a little encouragement to everything from the fantastic jingoism of Secretary Wilbur to the dulcet pacifism of Secretary Kellogg."

THE Washington Post (Republican) states its view: "There should be no mistake made with the naval program in December. There enters into its consideration nothing but the question of adequate national defense of the nation. It is plainly apparent that the United States should not stand still while the other great powers maintain the naval strength allotted to them under the Washington Conference. There is nothing in the international outlook to justify those who would thwart the development of the Navy on a scale commensurate with the responsibilities and obligations of this country. There should, therefore, be no compromise next winter with the opponents of the naval construction program. If the measure is properly advanced it can be shown plainly in a very short time where the opposition lies and the motives that inspire it. The country as a whole does not side with those who would lay off the armor which will do more to keep us out of war than any one safeguard that can be adopted."

THE Rochester Times-Union (Independent) thinks: "Congress has adjourned after a session remarkable for the number of important legislative matters dealt with, as well as for the extensive undertakings initiated. * * * In general, however, the first session of the 70th Congress cannot be accused of side-stepping. It faced most of the numerous questions confronting it and reached a decision, although, as in the case of the farm bill, that decision was in some instances open to just criticism."

liam Stern, of North Dakota, and H. Houston, of Hawaii.

Besides a veterans' relief resolution, the meeting approved the following:

National Defense.

"America's military policy is based upon a desire for peace and not upon aggression. In order to maintain this policy with safety to our country, our nationals and our interests in foreign lands, we maintain a small professional army, a navy which should be the equal of any, and an air force capable of defending our shores and aiding our land and sea forces.

"We pledge ourselves to develop the civilian components of the Army of the United States so that in time of emergency they may effectively accomplish their respective commissions under the National Defense Item, bring our Navy up to its proper ratio under the 5-5-3 Treaty so that our sea lanes may always remain open and to continue the expansion of our air forces until our shores may be safe from invasion by any foreign foe.

World Peace.

"We commend President Coolidge and the Administration for their efforts toward world peace.

Universal Draft.

"We believe that the principle of drafting in time of war, not only of the man power, but also every material resource and service which may contribute to success, is both necessary and equitable and is approved by the intelligence and conscience of all thoughtful citizens. We therefore recommend legislation which will enable the President to control all such resources and services, to stabilize prices of all essential commodities, to prevent all forms of profiteering, and to equalize as far as possible the burdens and sacrifices which war entails among all classes of citizens."

There was some criticism of the failure on the part of the ex-service delegates to give a more definite expression of the needs of the Regular Army. The matter was taken up during the sessions of the Resolutions Committee. Senator Smoot, of Utah, chairman of that Committee, had in conjunction with the Secretaries of War and Navy, inserted defense provisions in the tentative platform draft he had prepared. The result of all the deliberations was found in the following planks adopted by the Convention:

National Defense.

We believe that in time of war the Nation should draft for its defense not only its citizens, but also every resource which may contribute to success. The country demands that should the United States ever again be called upon to defend itself by arms, the President be empowered to draft such material resources and such services and essential commodities, whether utilized in actual warfare or private activity.

Navy.

We pledge ourselves to round out and maintain the Navy in all types of combatant ships to the full rate provided for the United States by the Washington treaty for the limitation of naval armament and any amendment thereto.

Aviation.

The achievements of the aviation branches of the Army and Navy are all to the advantage of commercial aviation, and in the Mississippi flood disaster the work performed by civil and military aviators was of inestimable value.

The development of a system of aircraft registration, inspection and control is a credit to the Republican administration, which, quick to appreciate the importance of this new transportation development, created machinery for its safeguarding.

Merchant Marine.

The Republican party stands for the American-built, American-owned, and American-operated merchant marine. The enactment of the White-Jones bill is in line with a policy which the party has long advocated.

Under this measure, substantial aid and encouragement are offered for the building in American yards of new and modern ships which will carry the American flag.

The Republican party does not believe in Government ownership or operation, and stands specifically for the sale of the present Government vessels to private owners when appropriate arrangements can be made. Pending such a sale, and because private owners are not ready as yet to operate on certain of the essential trade routes, the bill enacted allows the maintenance of these necessary lines under Government control till such transfer can be made.

It developed after the adoption of the Naval plank in the platform that that declaration was prepared by Secretary Wilbur and approved without change. The Secretary is receiving hearty congratulations upon the convention's endorsement of his program. He does not believe, however, the Navy is or should be in politics, and he is just as anxious for Democratic approval of a like plank as he was for Republican approval. It is pointed out the Navy is very close to the policy of Naval development without reference to the parties in Congress, and it is believed if the Houston convention should go on record as the Kansas City Convention has done the goal in sight will be reached.

Secretary of War Davis was mentioned in a commendatory way for the Army's participation in flood relief, but unfortunately the Army itself was not mentioned, this in spite of the earnest efforts of its friends. The platform merely endorsed the draft of man power and resources in time of war and spoke of the achievements of the aviation branches of the Services as helpful to commercial aviation development. The draft plank prepared by Mr. Davis relating to the Army and its Air Corps was not included, and the reason given for its omission is that the platform had to be curtailed or it would have been drawn out interminably.

The publisher of the Army and Navy Journal has found it valuable for the service to attend the Convention. He has had an opportunity to discuss the needs of the Services with numerous delegates who could not come in contact with such leaders as the Secretaries of War and Navy. It is unfortunate that comparatively little knowledge exists even among the men who ought to know, as to national defense needs, although there was evident a whole hearted interest in, and willingness to support, preparedness. During the meeting of the veteran delegates, a proposal was made to endorse the treaty outlawing war. Brig. Gen. Henry J. Reilly, O. R. C., who was not a delegate but who secured the floor, vigorously opposed it, as did Brig. Gen. Abel Davis, O. R. C., a Chicago delegate. The result was the veterans simply commended the efforts of the Administration toward world peace.

INSPECT ARMY AIR POSTS.

Rep. W. Frank James of Michigan, ranking member of the House Military Affairs Committee, left Washington on June 13 piloted by Lt. Harry A. Dinger, A. C., to inspect housing conditions at military posts. Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, Chief of Air Corps, left June 14 to join Rep. James at several of the posts.

Rep. James' itinerary calls for visits to Fort Hayes, Ohio; Chanute and Scott Fields, Ill.; Selfridge Field and Fort Brady, Mich. He will later visit Fort Snelling, Mich., near the summer White House at Brule, Wis.

G. I. POLOISTS ACTIVE.

New York (Special).—With nine games scheduled for the remainder of June and the month of July, the Governors Island polo team faces six weeks of strenuous activity. Devotees of mallet and ball will be able to see the local team in action on Governors Island in the shadow of the skyscrapers on June 23 against the 104th Field Artillery; June 24 against Saddle River; June 30 against the 105th Field Artillery; July 8 against Essex Troop; July 28 against the 1st Division and July 29 against the Jersey City Polo Club.

The team plays out of town July 15 at Jersey City against the Essex Troop and on July 22 at Huntington, L. I., against the 101st Cavalry.

(2) The Army and Navy lacrosse teams who play today to qualify for the Olympic trail finals.

(3) Lt. E. E. Partridge, A. C. U. S. A., for winning the 1928 Distinguished Aerial Gunnery Medal.

Ask Reserves to Confer

IN connection with the assembly in Washington on July 9 of a committee of nine Reserve officers, each representative of a different Corps Area, the War Department has informed each of the officers that so far as practicable it is desired that they consult with officers at their Corps Area Headquarters and with other Reserve officers in order to develop opinions and suggestions on the administrative operation of policies which govern the appointment, assignment, and promotion of Reserve officers. Thereby it is hoped that the representative of each Corps Area may have a perspective of conditions in his Corps Area.

The War Department will not outline any procedure for the committee, but will depend upon a free discussion and comparison of views to develop committee opinion. Records from all War Department files will be available for consultation by members of the committee during the course of their considerations. At the conclusion of the fifteen-day period of active duty the committee will make a report on their views and recommendations to The Adjutant General of the Army.

Army Notes

UP to June 28, the First Class of the U. S. Military Academy is undergoing instruction with field artillery at Fort Eustis, Virginia, with air corps at Langley Field, Virginia, and with coast artillery at Fort Monroe, Virginia. For this purpose the class of 313 has been divided into thirds and these thirds are rotating between Fort Monroe, Langley Field and Fort Eustis, every five days.

In previous years the First Class Cadets have had Coast Artillery practice at Fort Wright, Air Corps instruction at Mitchell Field, and Field Artillery practice at West Point. The change has been made to obtain better facilities for instruction, and to avoid the necessity for interruption of highway traffic over the Storm King Road by Field Artillery practice at West Point. All classes of Coast Artillery equipment are available at Fort Monroe. The Air Corps has excellent instructional facilities and personnel at Langley Field. Fort Eustis is sufficiently extensive to permit Field Artillery practice and the battalion of the 16th Field Artillery stationed at Fort Myer has been ordered to Fort Eustis to provide the instruction.

Upon completion of the tour of duty at the three Virginia posts, the class of cadets will leave Norfolk by steamer at 6:30 p. m., June 28, and will arrive in Washington at about 7 a. m., June 29. Thence it will proceed at once to Fort Leonard Wood, Maryland, where it will witness a tank demonstration. The class will leave Fort Leonard Wood about 1 p. m., June 30, for West Point.

In compliance with a request of the Secretary of War, the Secretary of State has designated Col. John R. Thomas, jr., General Staff, as Military Attache to the Irish Free State in addition to his present assignment as Military Attache to the American Embassy in London. The assignment of Colonel Thomas to the Irish Free State marks the first time an American Army officer has ever been detailed to this duty.

After four years in Washington as general staff officer in charge of decorations and regulations in G-1, Col. Alexander T. Ovenshine, Inf. I, G. D., U. S. A., left June 14 for Columbus, Ohio. He will be Inspector General of the 5th Corps Area there, after taking leave. Col. Ovenshine has made many friends in his four year stay in Washington.

The Spear Engineers, Incorporated, of Norfolk, Virginia, have informed the Secretary of War that the ferryboat "General Charles F. Humphrey," which that firm is building for the War Department, will be launched on Saturday, June 16, at 5:13 o'clock p. m. Upon its completion this boat will replace the "General Otis" which plies between Governors Island and New York City.

In order to provide a hospital at Camp Knox, Kentucky, to replace the one destroyed by fire in February, the War Department has authorized the remodeling of the Visitors' House on that reservation into a camp hospital. For this remodeling an expenditure of $3,696.09 has been authorized.

The War Department this week announced the retirement of Capt. R. M. House, 12th Infantry. Captain House was born in Alabama March 13, 1894, and first entered the military service as a 2nd lieutenant, Infantry, Sec. O. R. C. August, 1917. He became a 1st lieutenant of Infantry, Regular Army, July, 1920. Captain House is a graduate of the Infantry Tank School, Infantry School Company Officers' Course and received a B. First Division Notes

AN energetic campaign is being carried on by the 1st Division to bring its quota of reserve officers up to that provided for by the War Department. The large field of reserve officers in the 2nd Corps Area is being canvassed and excellent results are being secured. The Division quota is now 70 per cent filled. It is expected that a large number of the graduates of R. O. T. C. units in the Corps will join the Division this summer. A full complement of energetic and enthusiastic reserve officers is the ultimate aim of the Division.

Units in the 16th and 18th Infantry will play prominent parts in the Army Relief Garden Party to be held at Governors Island, N. Y., June 16. Each regiment will stage demonstrations of a high order.

The 16th Infantry is awaiting the start of the 2nd Corps Area baseball series, June 16, with a great deal of interest. The regimental team has won all its games so far this season against strong opposition and expects to make a bid for the Corps Area Championship.

The 28th Infantry, at Fort Niagara, N. Y., Col. R. E. Ingram, commanding, was inspected June 5, by Brig. Gen. Peter E. Traub, the new commander of the Second Brigade. A thorough inspection of the troops and garrison was conducted.

There will be 2,931 men sent to C. M. T. Camps during July in the Second Corps Area. Of these, 1,553 will go to Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y., the station of the 26th Infantry, and 344 to Fort Niagara, N. Y., for training with the 28th Infantry.

Second Division Notes

THE annual division maneuvers and Corps Area tactical inspection were held at Camp Stanley recently. The movement of the Division to Camp Stanley, some twenty miles distant, was begun on May 12 and completed on May 17, upon the arrival of Division Headquarters. The maneuvers comprised three exercises, two of which were of twenty-four hours' duration involving night marches, night attack and preparations under cover of darkness for attack at daylight. In all the exercises particular stress was laid on secrecy of movement, both from ground and air observation.

On the return to Fort Sam Houston, the infantry moving by truck made the trip in two hours, a happy contrast to the two-day march out.

On June 1, the Division was reviewed on Foch Field by Brig. Gen. A. J. Bowley. This was the first time the Division has been reviewed by its new commander. The ceremony was witnessed by several thousand persons, including Mrs. J. D. Sherman, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and more than a thousand delegates who were in San Antonio in attendance at the 19th Biennial Convention and who were present on Foch Field as guests of the Army.

June 2—Division Day—the anniversary of the entry of the Second Division into offensive action in the Chateau-Thierry Sector in 1918, was observed as a holiday. Sport events, free movies and vaudeville, and dancing were provided.

HOPE FOR "MANCHU LAW" ACTION IN DECEMBER.

LEGISLATION proposed in the session of Congress to soften the provisions of the so-called "Manchu" law written into the National Defense Act has been left pending in the House Military Committee where it will possibly receive action after December. S. 1823 was introduced in the Senate and passed on March 31; it was not reported from the House Military Committee. The "Manchu" law requires every staff officer to spend at least one out of each five years on duty with combat troops, and requires every line officer, below the grade of Brigadier General, to spend two out of each six years on duty with troops. The measure takes cognizance of the inconvenience which sometimes results from the present law, and places the matter largely in control of the Secretary of War.

GENERAL ALLEN TO SEEK DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION.

MAJ. GEN. HENRY T. ALLEN, U. S. A., Ret., this week announced to the press that he had given his friends permission to present his name to the National Democratic Convention at Houston, Tex., for the presidential nomination.

General Allen was born in Kentucky on April 13, 1859, was appointed to the Military Academy from that State and was graduated from West Point in 1882. He was commissioned a Second Lieutenant of Cavalry. He was assigned many important duties during his active service, being connected with the exploration of Alaska in 1885-86, serving in the Santiago campaign during the Spanish War, as Governor of the Island of Leyte in 1901 and as Chief of the Philippine Constabulary from 1901-1907. He served as military attaché abroad several times, and was attaché at Seoul, Korea, during the Russo-Japanese conflict. He served in the Punitive Expedition to Mexico, and during the World War commanded the 90th Division. His last assignment overseas was in command of the American Army of Occupation in Germany.

Another distinguished retired officer who will follow the proceedings of the Democratic Convention with interest is Rear Adm. R. E. Coontz, U. S. N., Ret. He expects to be present at the Convention and to endeavor to obtain a proper preparedness plank in the platform.

BILLS ON GUARD AND STATE RESERVES DRAFTED.

SUGGESTIONS were made at the Capitol just prior to the adjournment of Congress by a well-known officer of the National Guard Reserve, that legislation be introduced to develop an adequate National Guard Reserve and to provide for an additional State Reserve. The legislation is under consideration and may be introduced at the next session of Congress. In brief, one proposed bill provides for recruiting of the National Guard Reserve to approximately 200,000 and contains a clause which will enable National Guard Reserve Officers to hold commissions in the "National Guard Reserve Division" of the Organized Reserve. The other measure authorizes the enlistment of a State Reserve for the Organized Reserve, not to exceed 500,000 men, who will be carried on the rolls of present designated Reserve units in the various States.

ARMY JUNIORS IN ATLANTA STAR IN SCHOOLS.

SONS of Army Officers have brought much credit to themselves and their parents in more than one school in and around Atlanta, Ga., according to reports from our correspondent there. Among the students to receive signal honors were Henry Richard Hester, son of Major and Mrs. John H. Hester, of Fort McPherson; William Boswell, youngest son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Walter O. Boswell; Robert Joerg, 3rd, and Wood Joerg, sons of Capt. and Mrs. Robert Joerg, of Fort McPherson; James W. Adams, a student at Tech High School, Atlanta, son of Col. and Mrs. Emory S. Adams; Pat. Stevens, jr., a student at the Marist College, Atlanta, son of Colonel Stevens; Mervyn Magee, son of Major and Mrs. Magee, of the Medical Corps; James Wilson, son of Warrant Officer and Mrs. Wilson, won his appointment to West Point from Tech High School; Harry Purnell, son of Col. and Mrs. H. S. Purnell, was graduated from Georgia Tech; Dan Guy, son of Capt. and Mrs. Thomas E. Guy, of Fort McPherson, and Walter Bowman, son of Major and Mrs. Bowman, are now students at Georgia Tech; John W. Bowen, son of Major and Mrs. Burton E. Bowen, formerly of Fort Benning, graduated from the Georgia Military Academy and won a U. S. M. A. appointment.

COL. THOMPSON RETIRED AFTER 47 YEARS' SERVICE.

AFTER forty-seven years of military activity, Col. John M. Thompson, descendant of Revolutionary War and Confederate Army officers and himself a veteran of two wars, retired for age as regimental commander of the 502nd Coast Artillery (A. A.) on June 14.

For thirty-seven years, Colonel Thompson has been an active figure in National Guard and Reserve Corps activities in New York. He has commanded the 502nd Anti-aircraft Regiment, composed of New York Reserve officers, since 1924. Born in South Carolina, he enlisted at seventeen as a private in the famous Governor's Guards of that State and in 1891 transferred to the old 7th Infantry of New York. At the outbreak of the Spanish-American War he became a second lieutenant and served throughout the Cuban Campaign, participating in the battles of San Juan and Santiago. In the World War, he and his three sons were officers.

COL. TOWNSHEND MENTIONED AS NEW INSULAR BUREAU CHIEF.

ANOTHER officer, Col. Orval P. Townshend, has been mentioned as the possible successor to Maj. Gen. Frank McIntyre, Chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, who retires in December. Maj. Gen. McIntyre is the only permanent officer in the Insular Affairs Bureau, and his successor will be an officer detailed to duty with the Bureau. Col. Townshend is familiar with the conduct of Insular Bureau affairs, and present indications show a good chance of his succeeding Maj. Gen. McIntyre.

MINOR LEGISLATION SUGGESTED FOR NEXT SESSION.

ONE of the discriminations against Army officers which will probably be brought to the attention of Congress next session is that of isolated cases of damage claims of Army officers which have arisen when cargo shipped by officers through the Quartermaster Corps is jettisoned in emergency at sea. Under the law, private cargoes may be insured against "general average" losses, i. e., when a part of a cargo is jettisoned for the safety of a vessel and the loss divided among the shippers under a "general average" of loss. Such "general average" insurance of Government cargoes is not permitted by law. Several isolated cases of loss to Army officers have resulted in a move for legislation to allow such insurance.

Another matter, that of officers who sustain personal damages from other agencies of the Government, was taken up by the Military Committee last session. Under present law, a civilian whose automobile is struck by an Army truck may sue the Government for damages; but an Army officer in the same circumstances may not. The ruling on cases of this sort has been established by the Comptroller General, but will undoubtedly be changed when the injustice is considered by Congress.

ADMIRAL UPHAM RELIEVED BY RABY AT PENSACOLA.

REAR ADMIRAL FRANK B. UPHAM, U. S. N., has been relieved as Commandant of the Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Fla., by Rear Admiral J. J. Raby, U. S. N. Admiral Raby comes to his new post from sea duty as Commander of the Aircraft Squadrons of the Scouting Fleet, while Admiral Upham has been assigned to sea duty in command of Battleship Division Three of the Battle Fleet. The exchange of command at Pensacola took place on June 12.

POSSIBILITY OF C. W. S. STATUS CHANGE DENIED.

EMPHATIC denial of any possibility that the Chemical Warfare Service will be merged with the Ordnance or Department Corps of Engineers has been made by several officers in the War Department. They hold it is essential that the present Chemical Warfare Service continue to function independently of other branches. In this connection they call attention to a recent speech of Assistant Secretary of War Charles B. Robbins in which he said: "We must be prepared to defend ourselves if the use of chemicals be resorted to by others. As an essential step toward insuring such preparation, Congress by a provision of the National Defense Act created a Chemical Warfare Service as a separate branch of the War Department."

ARMY 1930 ESTIMATES MAY FARE BETTER THAN USUAL.

IF the former policy in revising War Department total estimates is followed by the Bureau of the Budget for 1930, radical changes in the estimates may be expected. The urgent needs of the War Department, however, as stated exclusively in the Army and Navy Journal of June 2, will necessitate an increase of $20,000,000 and it is hoped that no drastic reductions will be made.

Lexington Sets Records

SPEEDING through the Pacific at an average rate of 30.7 knots, the airplane carrier "Lexington" shattered five existing world's speed records from June 9 to 12, while en route from San Diego to Honolulu to join the Battle Fleet as a unit of the Aircraft Squadrons.

The vessel, despite the absence of the last stages of her turbine blades, which were found defective and removed, covered the distance of 2,228 nautical miles, in about 72 hours and 34 minutes, to exceed the previous record of 75 hours, 40 minutes and 40 seconds made by light cruiser "Omaha" in 1923. Three of the records were for miles steamed in 24 hours, the "Lexington," on her first day out, having traversed 700 nautical miles. On the succeeding 24-hour period, she surpassed that record, covering 742 nautical miles, and on her last 24 hours covering about 770 miles. The fifth record of the "Lexington" was that of miles steamed in three consecutive days.

The "Lexington" departed from San Pedro about noon on June 9. She arrived at Honolulu at 11:08 a. m., June 12. Capt. A. W. Marshall, U. S. N., commanding the vessel, in reporting to the Department her accomplishments, stated that smooth seas and favorable weather conditions were encountered on the passage. He stated that his craft averaged 30.7 knots for the entire voyage, including the time it took to work up to full speed. For the first day the ship averaged 28.2 knots; for the first 48 hours the average was raised to 30 knots.

The third day brought the voyage average up to 30.7 knots.

The previous record for the best day's run held by a Naval vessel was that of the "Omaha," which covered 699 miles. The "Mauretania" held the record of merchant ship and liner, established in 1911 when she logged 676 nautical miles in 24 hours.

The original horsepower of the "Lexington" was 180,000, but removal of the last stages of the turbines, which had hair-line cracks, reduced her horsepower to 148,000. With her additional 32,000 horsepower she would be capable of 33 knots.

Navy Notes

THE organization of the naval forces for the fiscal year 1929, based on a total enlisted strength of 84,000 men, will be practically the same as obtained during the last fiscal year. The only changes in make-up were occasioned by the completion during the year of the aircraft carriers Lexington and Saratoga, the submarines V-4 and V-5, and the six Chinese river gunboats for use on the Yangtze River.

The two aircraft carriers were assigned to the aircraft squadrons of the Battle Fleet, in company with the second line carrier Langley and the tenders Arctostook and Gannett. The V-4 and V-5 were assigned to Division Twenty of the Submarine Divisions of the Scouting Fleet, which also comprise the V-1, 2 and 3. The Chinese river gunboats will replace the obsolete converted yachts now assigned to the Yangtze patrol.

The Commandant of the Navy Yard at Norfolk, Va., has reported to the Navy Department by dispatch that a boiler accident took place on board the destroyer U. S. S. Bruce at 2:10 a. m. on June 11, 1928, which caused the death of three Navy Yard workmen. There were no others injured and the vessel suffered no material damage.

Admiral Mark L. Bristol, U. S. N., Commander-in-Chief of the Asiatic Fleet, reported to the Navy Department this week that he is in receipt of information from Brig. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, U. S. M. C., Commanding General of the 3rd Marine Brigade as follows:

"Nationalist flag flying over all Chinese activities at Tientsin. Representatives of Yen Shi Shan took over the city on the morning of June 12. Chang Thung Chang Chu Yu Pu evacuated, city quiet, but nervous."

Lt. Comdr. T. L. Nash, U. S. N., has relieved Lt. Comdr. J. K. Davis, U. S. N., as the commander of Eagle No. 35 and hoisted the pennant of Commander of Eagle Division One, attached to Submarine Division of the Battle Fleet.

The Presidential yacht Mayflower will go into the Navy Yard at Boston on June 24 for her annual overhaul, while President Coolidge is spending his vacation at Brule, Wis.

The itinerary of the Mayflower during the summer is as follows: June 22, leave Navy Yard, Washington D. C.; June 24, arrive Navy Yard, Boston, annual overhaul; July 23, leave Navy Yard, Boston; July 24 to Aug. 9, operate in Long Island Sound area, base on New London, Conn.; Aug. 10, arrive New York; Aug. 15, leave New York, and Aug. 17, arrive Washington, D. C.

Ordered to the Navy Yard at Portsmouth, N. H., as a test submarine hulk, the S-4, victim of a catastrophe in which her entire crew of 40 was lost, will be used in scientific research with a view of preventing recurrences of the disaster that befell the submersible.

Adm. Charles F. Hughes, Chief of Naval Operations, in ordering the S-4 towed to the Portsmouth yard, specified that safety devices of new design be tested in the hulk. It is understood that the Department intends to experiment with many new types of safety appliances that have been suggested to the Department since the S-4 disaster.

Earlier in the week Adm. Hughes issued orders that the S-4 be decommissioned as of date of March 19, 1928, the day on which the vessel was turned over to the commandant of the Boston Navy Yard. At that time no instructions were issued relative to the future use of the vessel.

NAVY SWIMMERS BREAK RECORDS.

Annapolis, Md. (Special).—Naval Academy swimmers, training here for the Olympic games, were credited with breaking two world records today in trials sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Association and timed by officials of the South Atlantic Athletic Association.

Rule, Wyckoff, Turner and Coale lowered the 880-yard world's short course relay mark from the former time of 9:27 to 9:21.

In the 1,100-yard short course swim the Navy tankmen were timed in 11:47 3-5, as against the former record of 12:12. Wyckoff, Turner, Coale, and Brown composed the relay for the 1,100-yard distance.

Navy Officers Graduated

TWENTY-SIX Navy officers were recently graduated from the Chemical Warfare School at Edgewood Arsenal, Md. Their names follow:

When Food Sours

Sweeten the stomach—instantly

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug-store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

State Naval Reserve Plans

MORE than eight thousand members, officers and men of the United States Naval Reserve will make cruises this summer aboard the destroyers of the Fleets, the Navy Department has announced. These cruises will be for periods of 15 days and the naval reservists will replace 45 per cent of the regular personnel of the destroyers. They will be trained for their wartime duties by actually operating the ships and carrying out a regular schedule of training in maneuvers, tactics, and gunnery exercises.

Embarking the reservists at different ports at noon on Saturday, the vessels will mobilize on the following Monday and for three days individual ship exercises will be carried out. On Thursday and Friday the destroyers will maneuver in divisions. After a week-end at a liberty port, the destroyers will begin their gunnery exercises. During the second week of training, competitive boat races will be held and also competitive signal drills.

The Reserve Divisions from the first, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth Naval Districts will be embarked on vessels of the Destroyer Divisions of the Scouting Fleet. Four cruises will be made by these ships: From June 30 to July 14; from July 14 to July 28; from July 28 to Aug. 11; from Aug. 11 to Aug. 25.

Reserve divisions from Brooklyn and from Washington, D. C., will cruise on two destroyers assigned to their respective divisions. They will be trained during three periods: June 30 to July 14; July 21 to Aug. 4; Aug. 11 to Aug. 25.

Naval Reservists from Dallas, Houston and Galveston, Tex., and Birmingham Ala., will cruise on two destroyers from the Control Force during two periods, July 7 to July 21; Aug. 4 to Aug. 18. Havana, Cuba, will be the liberty port for these destroyers.

Letters to Editor

WANTS PROMOTION LIST CORRECTED.

Editor, Army and Navy Journal:

ACCEPTING your invitation to send in my views on the results of the investigation of the promotion situation, let me first say that I believe that the recommendations of the General's Board are excellent, as far as they go—but they do not go far enough. Upon the recommendation that no change be made in the Promotion List, I am entirely in disagreement, as certainly it is not an injustice to correct a previous wrong.

When the Crime of 1920 was committed many of us already in the Regular Army, and who had embarked upon our military career years before—in 1913, 1914, and 1915, expected, at least, fair play. There were vacancies to be filled by promotion—but they were not. We were not even allowed to remain at the top of the lists in our respective grades, but in the words of the bill: "All captains and lieutenants now in the Regular Army will be rearranged among themselves and placed at the foot of the list in their respective grades." This allowed all captains to outrank all regular army captains, all new first lieutenants to outrank all regular first lieutenants, etc., regardless of length of previous service, previous rank held, etc. This caused us to be outranked by men of less service, by men who had never held as high rank, and also by many men younger than ourselves.

When we entered the service we made a contract with the Government and believed that our future would be governed by certain laws then in effect. These laws were disregarded or nullified by succeeding laws which deprived us of our natural right to certain rank, precedence, and promotion. The reason was simple: the army was to be expanded and the framers of the project were trying to "sell the proposition" to former World War officers—and sacrificing the younger regular army officers to do so.

Looking back to the years of 1913, 1914, and 1915, we felt a "vested right" to certain places on the Promotion List and the loss of such position was a serious blow. Serious financially by putting us in a lower pay period. For when the new pay bill went through in July, 1922, many of us would have been due for a foggy the following month, but were forced to grasp the "saving clause"—we got neither the $10 per month increase that men commissioned as captains on July 1, 1920, received, nor did we get the $20 per month foggy due the following month. Serious also professionally for we were relieved of command of our troops, companies, and batteries; many of the officers relieving us never having ever had a command. Serious also in point of living conditions as we were ranked out of quarters, and promptly.

The effect of the discrimination against us was still further felt when the Army was reduced in 1922. Because of the low position in which we had been placed, we were the ones reduced. Not satisfied with this a "submerged Captains' bill" appeared—if we were not it, who was? This operated to withhold our promotion for about four years—during all of which time we lost our commands which we had regained, lost the quarters we had been assigned, and lost money because we could not collect longevity pay while serving in this lower grade. At the same time, officers our juniors, even by many hundreds of files, were regaining their rank and pay. How did they get that way, who was their friend, and why was it that they would be so signally favored? Who were they anyway? I would really like to know something about it.

When repromoted in 1926, we received, for the very first time, after over twelve (12) years of service, pay for length of service. The low place to which assigned on the promotion list had cost us each over $1,000 in pay which we could not collect and those on rental allowance were even more severely affected.

We were also discriminated against in 1922, when every form of service was given credit for computing longevity pay except service at the Military Academy since 1912. The bill read so that that was not excepted, but the Supreme Court ruled that it was by a previous law. All others had gone by the board and been nullified, why was that not void also?

We have tried to put our position before the "Powers that Be," but without success. They recognize us as a group and all agree that we have been miserably treated—but they will not listen to us nor attempt in any way to remedy the situation.

To right a wrong cannot create an injustice when it is only at the expense of those who have been wrongfully holding places above that which they should. Does the mere occupancy of a position on the promotion list for seven and a half years give said occupant a right to that place when he never was entitled to it? Are those who have suffered for the same seven and a half years to be compelled to continue in the same situation until they leave the service? We are not many, to change us will not seriously hurt anyone, those who will be adversely affected would not object—in fact, I have never spoken to one of them who would offer the slightest objection, but would, on the contrary, be glad to see us treated as in our right.

We thought our time had come when boards were appointed, but a perusal of the make up of the various boards was disillusioning. We were represented on so few boards that our voice was to be disregarded. Did those boards express the opinion of the services? They did not. They expressed what would operate to the best advantage of the majority of members composing each board. Most boards were composed as follows: Senior officers who did not know the situation, were not affected, and were not concerned; officers who would only lose by a reorganization; and an officer too far junior to the hump to be affected by it.

To get a real expression of opinion every officer should present his views; either in a letter or in a questionnaire. A real investigation should be held and the whole matter thoroughly examined.

This is a general sketch of what we have suffered, detailed figures can be produced and, in fact, were submitted by some boards. The remainder of the proposed legislation is excellent, but not far reaching enough.

I presume that I should be glad to know that in about seven years from now I may be made a major. This will only mean added expenses and the loss of $200 per year mounted pay. Why should there not be a distinct increase in pay with each grade? There always was and one now exists for all except those who are just attaining their majority (or other increased rank). Meanwhile, officers with but little more than a year's more service than my class have already been majors for some years, counting also longevity pay for length of service at the Military Academy.

One of the basic reasons for the appeal for rearrangement of the Promotion List was a desire for a more nearly adequate pay for the officers of the grades of captain and below. The senior officers were quite well provided for—at the expense of their juniors. At their expense, not merely now, but forever. In 1908, pay rates were devised to meet the expenses of living conditions of the times. In 1928 (20 years later), the captains and lieutenants are receiving practically the same pay. I do not know comparative figures for 1908, but since 1914 ordinary living expenses have increased 104 per cent while wages have climbed 110 per cent. An officer's living expenses have mounted even more, as he is forced to do things now that he never did before—a car is a necessity to execute his official duties, he must mingle with civilians, even if not detailed to a college or the National Guard or the Reserve, in order to "sell the army." The increased allowances have but raised his pay approximately 8 per cent if without dependents or about 16 per cent with dependents, for captains, with the poor second lieutenant receiving but $1.33 more per month than in 1908. This very meager increase rapidly vanishes, for any child can tell the 5 per cent every three years equals but 10 per cent in six and that the old system of 10 per cent every five years meant more money. Why not 2 per cent per year?

Like all of the rest of my class, I am getting less actual pay ($10 per month), than under the 1908 Act. My allowance of $36 gives but a net increase, $26 per month or about 11 per cent. For the time July 1, 1922, to September, 1926, my pay was $20 per month less and allowance gave net increase of $16. Then for some months it was $30 per month less with net increase $6. Could I count my cadet service these figures would be even more formidable. Yet civilian wages have grown 110 per cent since 1914! It is not only the second lieutenants who need relief.

Is it not within the province of the General's Board in making recommendation for the procurement, etc., of officers that they should recommend proper pay for such officers? I think so. I have long ago given up hopes of ever getting anywhere in the army, but I still cherish the hope that we may get a salary sufficient for a comfortable living.

U. S. M. A., Aug., 1917.

PLAIN WORDS ON FANCY DRESS.

Editor, Army and Navy Journal:

THE continuous bluffs for dress uniforms and the incidental trimmings, makes one wonder how time is spent these days in the Army. Outside of a few interested General Officers, nothing is said for the poor enlisted man who is forced to go star gazing in what looks like a poor quality gunny sack. I never saw a more down-in-the-mouth aggregation of men in all my life as what mopes down the dim-lighted side streets of San Antonio and Lawton, trying to keep civilians from seeing their miserable get-up. Wotta life!

Beau Brummel officers need to do a lot of research work around their men's barracks. Research work is always good. Raise some hell about the men's clothes. Eat some of the meals, and check up on the mess sergeant's bills of fare occasionally. You may get a good case of sore eyes and a good deal of indigestion; but you will do your bit towards raising the morale of the Army! And find less time for trumpeting around for a brass hat and a pair of light blue breeches. It is just too dog-gone bad that some of the military intelligentsia cannot get away with their afternoon tea just because their present uniform annoys their gastric juices.

I have seen this dress uniform. So called. You ought to hear how the rear rank used to comment on it! In my time there was nothing funnier than some dignified Major at dress parade all dolled up in glory inside of a goofy outfit he bought when a Second Lieutenant. Those forgotten days of youth and slenderness. Maybe he was trying to give the boys a good show, I don't know. The general effect was that no one ever missed the sights of dress parade if one could help it! And now they want a helmet with a spike on top of it and a coat with tails flapping south-by-east every time the wind blows north-by-west. Doesn't the Q. M. Corps furnish mirrors anymore in field officers' quarters? Gosh sakes! If a bevy of these full-rigged caballeros ever sailed down a city street there would be 10,000 people follow after them, looking for Harold Lloyd and the camera man. In self defense let us try to confine these trick uniforms to movie ushers, Hollywood policemen and Ritz-Carlton poodles. But, if Freudian repressed desires simply must break out pathologically then turn the offenders over to some South Sea tattoo artist. This will make the subject at least temporarily happy, and if he has had an all-over job done on him it would make for some source of additional income, badly needed after he has shown his stuff on the battlefield. Especially for one who has spent his studious years worrying about the length of his shoe laces and the specific gravity of his hair oil.

It is the enlisted man who should be looked after in the uniform line. He needs at least a dashing olive drab affair; well tailored, well fitting and swanky. He needs it a whole gosh darned lot quicker than some Colonel needs a red sash and a goofy sword knot. Why not get busy at the right spot and where it will do the most good?

SATURDAY, JUNE 16, 1928.

"An informed executive is more alive to national needs than the people engaged in their daily avocations."—THE REAL DIRECTOR.

THE SERVICES may be sure that if Herbert Hoover, nominated at Kansas City, shall be elected—and the chances are he will be—they will not be without a strong friend in the White House. The Secretary of Commerce has a broad grip on international relations. Having lived in China and other sections of the world, and aware by personal contact with European statesmen of the grasping policies of the Old World, he understands far better than Governor Smith possibly could the importance of an efficient army, a powerful fleet and adequate preparation.

IT IS RATHER surprising to find Mr. Hoover, who was born and bred in the Middle West, attacked because of alleged ignorance of the sentiment of the people of that section. We are interested in this suggestion, because after all anything which affects the wheat and corn fields of the nation affects our prosperity and certainly our preparation for defense. Ex-Governor Lowden is an expert on agriculture; so is Senator Norris, of Nebraska, an avowed pacifist. Senator Watson has a broader vision than either of these gentlemen. Vice President Dawes was the only silent contender for the nomination who understands defense needs. Taking the hind view of the situation, so far as the Services are concerned, we feel they could not have made a better selection from the field than the Secretary of Commerce.

IF THE SECRETARY had not been nominated, we are certain the Republican Party would have turned to General Pershing. Whether he would have accepted or not, no one knows. But we who are in Kansas City at this writing found tremendous sentiment and admiration for the General, not only among the veterans but among the men and women not fortunate enough to serve during the war. It is certain if the Convention had not nominated Mr. Hoover, it would have been impossible, for various reasons, for it to have taken any other man from the field. The General, who was born in Missouri and has his official residence in Nebraska, appealed to the farm section of the country. The business interests of the East regard him as safe and sane. But there was no opportunity for the delegates to express themselves with respect to the former commander-in-chief of the A. E. F., since the instructions they received required them to vote for this or that candidate, and those uninstructed were swayed by political manoeuvre to the support principally of Hoover. All we can say is that if General Pershing had been nominated it would have been but a fitting reward for the tremendous service he rendered to his country.

THE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION now is about to open. That Smith will be the nominee is regarded as settled. But we note by the press that Major General Henry Allen has given permission for his name to be used as a candidate. General Allen rendered splendid service in connection with the administration of the Coblenz district, and we have no doubt that among the German-Americans a great deal of sentiment could be aroused in his behalf. Knowing Tammany's thoroughness, aware of the way in which its strong-box is filled, we feel that Mr. Smith will be so well supported that no other candidate will have a show.

THERE IS ANOTHER name being quietly circulated in upper Democratic circles which is of interest to the Army. It is that of Major General Charles P. Summerall, Chief of Staff. The suggestion is that he should be nominated for the Vice Presidency on the Smith ticket. General Summerall hails from Florida, and thus represents the South, where admittedly Smith, on account of religion, is weak. Moreover, he is a national figure, and would have strong veteran support. His war record is impeccable. Thus he has qualifications which would have a real appeal. As Chief of Staff, General Summerall has no politics, but the State from which he hails has assured the Democratic politicians that he belongs to the party of Jefferson. It will be interesting to watch whether or not the suggestion receives consideration at Houston.

NO STONE SHOULD be left unturned to induce the Congress at the coming session to reestablish the enlisted strength of the Army at 118,750 men exclusive of the Air Corps. The losses which the ground arms will suffer in order to provide for the Air force as contemplated by the Air law, will affect materially the efficiency of the Service, since it will necessitate the adoption of numerous makeshifts which are not desirable in a military organization. A fight will be made to increase the estimates for the support of the Army during the fiscal year 1930, but this is not enough. The people must be made to realize that the Army now available is too small for the numerous needs of the Nation, and that in order to take care of these needs as far as possible, Peter must be robbed to pay Paul. Politicians are vociferous in their declarations that they are for adequate preparedness; but it is about time the word adequate should be defined.

TODAY the Army and Navy lacrosse teams play in the Olympic trial semi-finals. Should both emerge victorious from today's clash, there will be the unique spectacle of another Army-Navy contest on June 23 to determine which Service will represent the U. S. in the Olympics.

The Navy crew, training for the Poughkeepsie Regatta, also has an opportunity for Olympic honors if it sweeps to victory Tuesday. With the Army equestrian team training to make a strong bid in the mounted events, the Services assure the Nation of proper representation in these sports.

SERVICE HUMOR

HOW CUTICLE.

Then there was the absent-minded Infantry School instructor who gave his nails an examination and cut his class.

OFT IN THE STILLY NIGHT.

"I guess we'll make port," said the sailor as he threw in a handful of raisins.

A KNEE-SY MARK.

"Nan is trying hard to land her lieutenant."

"You bet! She has set her knee cap for him."

LOOK BEFORE YOU LEAP!

Dog Watch—"Where'd you get that black eye?"

Relief—"Jumping."

D. W.—"What?"

R—"Yes. Jumping at conclusions about the girl I had last night."

BLIND STAGGERS.

Silly Sal—"Oh, officer! There's a man following me and I think he must be intoxicated!"

M. P. (giving her the once over)—"Yes, he must be."

CHIPS OF THE OLD BLOCK.

New Sergeant (drilling squad of green men)—"Sons, when I was a little boy, I had a set of wooden soldiers. One day I lost them and cried very hard. But my mother said, 'Never mind, Johnny, some day you will have your soldiers back.' And now" (he paused and wiped his eyes) "that day has come."

THE TANK GURGLED.

Motor Transport—"Coming home the other night at 3 o'clock our headlights burned out on us."

Cavalry—"How did you get home without being arrested?"

M. T.—"We just drove full speed and all the cops thought we were bootleggers."

OUTSIDE THE GUARDHOUSE.

Pvt. (to prisoner)—Well, what do you want now?

Prisoner—I'd like an outside room.

SHAKING THE BONES.

An optimistic soldier is one who hops out of his bunk on a cold morning, saying: "Well, I'll be back to you in eleven hours."

A pessimist is one who turns in, saying: "Gee! up again in seven hours!"

NO HOPE.

Shavetail—"I say, if the worst comes to the worst I suppose we can go and live with your parents?"

Wife—"Not a chance. They're already living with their parents."

GHOST DANCER.

"How did you know the Lieutenant was stewed?"

"He was having an awful fight with the C. O."

"How does that prove he was drunk?"

"The C. O. wasn't there at the time!"

A GRAND SLAM.

"Bridge, bridge, bridge," cried Captain Jones to his wife. "You'll kill yourself playing bridge."

"Then, darling," replied Mrs. Jones, "you must be sure to bury me with simple honors."

What Have You—

to offer in the way of mirth-producing jokes? Congress has adjourned without relieving the situation. Help the embattled, downtrodden joke bloc by posting your contribution with a two cent stamp. Address Humor Editor.

WHEN YOU ARE TRANSFERRED

ASK the Journal about living conditions, etc., at the Post to which you have been directed to proceed. Questions will be answered as soon as possible either in this column or by letter. Address Post Editor.

B. A. R. Camp Devens, Mass., is two miles from Ayer, Mass., 10 from Lowell, and 38 from Boston. Taxi service to Ayer is available, but a car is a necessity. Post busses carry children to Ayer schools. Servants are scarce. Nearest store is two miles; Ayer stores deliver to Post. There is a Post Commissary, and Lowell and Boston stores are used extensively. Camp Devens has seven temporary quarters for married officers, partly modernized, and bachelor officers are assigned to cantonment buildings converted into quarters. Warrent officers have five sets of similar quarters. There are 12 sets for married N. C. O's. The Hotel Devens is the best at Ayer. Roads are good, and are cleared of snow in winter. In summer, there are tennis courts, swimming pools and polo teams at the Post; a golf course is within 10 miles. Small game hunting is good, as is bass and pickerel fishing. Winters are very cold and summers cool. Wool is worn all year. Camp Devens was established in 1917, to mobilize and train the 76th Division, and was a demobilization station after the war. It is now primarily a training camp for the 13th Reg. Inf., C. M. T. C., R. O. T. C., O. R. C., and National Guard. There is no post chaplain; the chaplain of the 13th Inf. is Catholic. Protestant clergymen hold summer Sunday services.

J. V. K. The commanding officer of 7th Inf., Hdqrs. Fort Snelling, Minn., on Oct. 5, 1878, was Col. John Gibbon. Companies B, C, E, F, H and K were stationed there. The names of Co. C officers will be published later.

IN THE JOURNAL 60 YEARS AGO

The Montgomery Advertiser published: "We are requested by soldiers on duty to state that at the negro carpet-bag and scalawag meeting the soldiers gave three groans for Grant, three cheers for McClellan, and three cheers for Andrew Johnson." Brevet Brig. Gen. O. L. Shepherd criticized the Advertiser.

Midshipmen from Annapolis in the Macedonian, Savannah, and the Dale, were at West Point for the U. S. M. A. graduation under Comdr. S. B. Luce. The Idaho was the first American man-of-war to visit Dilley, Island of Timor.

When the Franklin sailed from Lisbon for Antwerp, "a man fell from the top-gallant yard, struck the bunt of the maintopsail, the clothes lines, the bridge railing, went through the bridge, landed on her main hatch ladder, slid down and was picked up in perfect senses, with one leg broken and a scratch or two on his hands and face."

An Army Major was shot at Bolling Green, Ky., by an ex-Confederate officer.

Senator Wilson introduced a bill for revision of the Articles of War.

The standard by which other vacuum tubes are rated

There are 20 types of RCA Radiotrons, each especially designed for a particular purpose. For each use the designated RCA Radiotron is recognized as the standard of performance by radio experts and manufacturers of quality receiving sets.

Look for this mark on every Radiotron

Every Radiotron is inspected and tested in 41 different ways before it leaves the great laboratory-factories where it is made by the engineers of RCA, Westinghouse and General Electric—the experts who made modern broadcasting possible. Equip your set with RCA Radiotrons. Never use new tubes with old ones that have been in use a year or more. See that your set is completely equipped with RCA Radiotrons once a year at least.

CHLORAMINE

A blessing to the wounded during the war, Chloramine is today called our most effective sterilizing agent. Improved from the original Dakin solution (Sodium Hypochlorite), Chloramine today is non-irritating to the tissues, nontoxic, colorless, odorless, and in germicidal power superior to the older, odorous disinfectants.

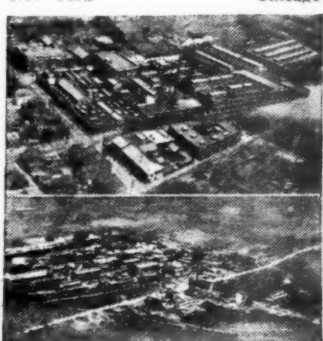

Convenient to carry and use, Chloramine has hundreds of uses—for dressing wounds, abscesses and chronic infections; as a gargle and nasal douche; as a vaginal douche and disinfectant of the genito-urinary tract; for irrigation; on farms and dairies; in home, camp, or field—wherever there is need for a harmless, efficient, sterilizing agent.

The Chief of Air Corps has forwarded a recommendation to the War Department that 25 of these Cadets be commissioned as Second Lieutenants in the Air Corps Reserve, two of them already being in possession of Reserve commissions.

The men who will become eligible to wear the wings of full fledged airplane pilots are:

J. S. Bartles, C. E. Bradshaw, D. E. Broughton, L. C. Brown, R. Brownfield, K. A. Cool, P. L. Foster, E. R. French, A. F. Kalherer, T. Kenyon, J. E. Mallory, I. W. Ott, J. N. Peyton, F. A. Pillet, R. Flying Cadets Pitts and Walker already hold commissions as 2nd Lieutenants in the Reserve Corps and are being recommended for transfer to the Air Corps Reserve. Cadet Douglas M. Swisher is a full fledged member of the Caterpillar Club, having joined that exclusive organization composed of those airmen who have made emergency parachute jumps, on April 24 last. On that date, flying a pursuit plane at 9,000 feet altitude, a collision in the air caused it to go out of control and he leaped out and made a safe landing with his parachute.

Aeronautical Notes

THE WAR DEPARTMENT announces the following policy for inactive duty flying of Air Corps Reserve Officers:

Commanding officers will allow qualified Air Corps Reserve officers, while on an inactive status, to pilot heavier-than-air or assist in the operation of lighter-than-air Army aircraft, for a maximum of 48 hours in any fiscal year. These allotted hours should generally be equitably distributed by quarters except when, in the judgment of the Corps Area or exempted station commander, the best interests of the service would be served by a different distribution of the available flying hours.

Any Reserve officer reporting for inactive duty must present a pilot book, properly posted and attested to date, in order that the commanding officer concerned can insure compliance with this provision.

President Coolidge on June 9 presented to Lt. Frank C. Schilt, U. S. M. C., the Congressional Medal of Honor in recognition of heroism displayed by him in Nicaragua last January, when he evacuated wounded at Quilali under hostile infantry fire taking off in his plane a total of ten times in a rolling village street.

Capt. R. E. Ellis, A. C., Res., personnel executive officer at Bolling Field, has received official commendation from Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, Chief of Air Corps, for landing a burning plane near Green Springs, Va., May 23.

AERONAUTICS :: RADIOArmy Studies Air Safety

(This article, prepared by an outstanding Army Air Corps authority is presented to our readers as of particular interest at this time, when a Navy Board, convened to study a ways and means of reducing air accidents, has just submitted its report. The Navy Board report deals with personnel as well as material factors involved in air accidents. This article gives a general outline of the material factors affecting the kindred service.)

THREE basic causes have been found in deaths and accidents in the Army Air Corps: Fire, motor failure, and airplane failure. The human equation, which must be considered in decreasing accidents, involves the pilots' judgment, physical condition, experience, and ability to combat weather conditions and sudden atmospheric changes. The Air Corps has devoted much time and earnest effort towards elimination of all these factors.

A study of the first three causes shows that fire during flight may be caused by ignition troubles or through a gasoline line break, consequent escape of fuel and its contact with the hot exhaust pipe or wires, with resulting fire. Fires from this source have been virtually eliminated. Danger of short circuits is avoided by placing a control box with circuit breakers in the cockpit. In case the electrical system goes out of order, there is a master switch which throws off all electrical leads to all parts of the plane except the motor. Motor ignition leads may also be cut off by a separate switch. Independent radio, instrument light, landing light, landing flare, and heater apparatus switches are also used in eliminating fire hazard from short circuits.

Fire may occur in the magneto in planes equipped with magneto ignition. A fire-proof ventilating hole cap has been devised which diffuses and cools the flame from the vent hole, thus preventing fire outside of the magneto. These caps are applicable to all existing types of magnetoes.

Gasoline tanks are covered with a heavy rubber fabric envelope of bullet-resisting character, to avoid piercing bullets. This rubber closes up the bullet hole and prevents escape of gasoline. This also conserves the fuel supply, often preventing a forced landing.

Most military planes have several types of gas tanks, wing, main, and auxiliary. Some have also a "belly" tank to permit extended cruising. In case of trouble, the "belly" tanks may be dropped clear of the plane by a release lever in the cockpit. The entire plane's fuel supply may also be discharged through a main valve when a forced landing is in prospect, to avoid fire if the plane crashes.

Newer types of planes have Pyrene motor-drenching systems, controlled by a cockpit knob. There is seldom time to use the hand-Pyrene to spray a motor afire, and air blasts make this method useless. The motor-drenching system leaves pilot and passengers free to devote attention to other emergency matters.

The Air Corps considers the merit of the parachute proven beyond all question. Over 75 lives have been saved to date by their use. Several military types are individually fitted to wearers and become part of the pilot's or observer's equipment, fitting on back, seat, or lap. A convenient hand ring releases the chutes from their containers. All military parachutes are hand operated, to allow jumping before release.

Motor weight has been reduced from one to three pounds per horsepower, compared with as high as 20 pounds per horsepower in automobile engines. The danger of forced landings has been further lessened by use of brakes on planes, allowing one-half of the former necessary distance for a dead stop. Independent use of right and left brakes facilitates taxiing, particularly in strong winds.

Motor self-starters eliminate danger to personnel in starting motors. The "electric inertia starter" is used on planes, as automobile-type starters have too much weight and operate at slower speed.

Shock absorbers are hydraulic, adapted to planes. Structural strains and failures from landing on rough ground have largely been eliminated through their use.

Instrument safety devices for navigation and bad weather flying are now a standard part of plane equipment. Two curved carpenter's levels, called "inclimometers" are mounted in the latitudinal and longitudinal lines of the plane, to indicate equilibrium. A "bank and turn indicator" shows when a plane is off on a bank or turn.

Navigation in cloud or fog is hard and fatiguing. To fly a true compass course is practically impossible when the ground is not wholly visible and when the old style compass is used. A new compass, which is set on the desired course marked "zero," has been developed for bad weather flying. Any deviation from the desired course is at once known to the pilot.

Airdrome landing field floodlights are now in wide usage, as are revolving direction beacons, which guide pilots to safe havens marked by the lights. Radio beacons are meeting with successful introduction, and have proven their worth on the Hegenberger-Maitland and Southern Cross flights. The beacon is of two crossed

Radio Notes

THE Office of Fleet Training has issued to the Service the Communication Competition Rules for the Forces Afloat for the fiscal year 1928-29. The Shore Communication Competition has been divided into Communication Competition for Shore Radio Traffic Stations and Communication Competition for Shore Radiocompass Stations. The tentative rules for these competitions have been submitted to the Commandants for comment and recommendation.

Every bed in Sternberg General Hospital, Philippine Islands, now has a radio headset connected with a central receiving station. Loud speakers are installed in the hospital recreation rooms and little theater to supplement the bi-weekly moving picture show with radio entertainment.

loop antennas transmitting "N" and "A" signals in Morse code. In practice a transmitting goniometer permits shifting of the bisector of the projected angle to any desired direction. The "N" and "A" signals combine into a single dash or "T" signals the bisector of the projected angle which is the line of flight. In flying by radio beacon the pilot so directs his course as to hear the "T" signal which is received at regular intervals on a standard airplane receiving set. This automatically compensates for errors due to cross winds, which must be corrected by the pilot when navigating by other known methods.

Failures due to the pilot are becoming more and more rare. Careful training and watch over the individual pilot, and a high physical standard are responsible for the improvement. During the World War, when the flying service was developing, the Medical Department established a Corps of Flight Surgeons. They are attached to all flying units, and in addition to duty as doctors, are continually observing pilots under their care. The slightest "let-down" is noted and corrected. The result of this care, combined with efforts to find perfect plane equipment and safety devices, has been a greater elimination of accidents and flying casualties in the Air Corps.

Air Match Winners Given

Langley Field (Special).—Lt. Earle E. Partridge, A. C., was winner for the third consecutive time of the Distinguished Aerial Gunnery Medal, with a score in this year's matches of 627.8 made in competition with 11 other Air Corps officers and 4 National Guard officers in the Pilots' Match with observation and attack planes. Lt. John Bowman was second with 544.8 and Lt. Lotha A. Smith third with 512.9. Secretary Davison presented winners' medals here June 9.

Lt. John J. Williams won the Pilots' Match with Pursuit planes, making 765.4 points. Lt. Robt. W. Douglas, jr., who flew from France Field, C. Z., with Lt. James E. Parker to enter the matches and who was winner in 1925, finished second with 751.7. Lt. Wm. L. Cornelius made third with 750. Six pilots competed in this event.

The Observers' Match was won by Lt. Orin J. Bushey, 175.5; Lt. James W. Andrew, second, 155; and Lt. James T. Shively, third, 141.5. Seventeen competed; of these five were N. G. officers and two A. C. Res. officers.

The team of Lts. John F. Whiteley (pilot) and Wm. M. Lanagan (bomber) won the Bombardment match with a score of 1,537. Lts. Harold A. Wheaton and David A. Behncke took second place with 1,499, and Lts. Fred. G. Richardson and Edw. H. Holterman, third, with 1,458. Seven bombing teams participated.

A summary shows 44 competitors in the four competitions of the 1928 Aerial Gunnery and Bombing Matches. Ten were N. G. officers and two A. C. Res. officers.

Medals were presented to 1925-26-27 winners named in issue of June 9.

Leech Cup Match August 18

THE fifth competition between the Army and the Navy for the Leech Lawn Tennis Trophy will take place on August 18 in Washington. The trophy was first presented for competition in 1924 by A. Y. Leech, jr., through the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association. It is intended that the trophy will be for perpetual competition. The Army team was victorious in 1924, 7-0, and 1925, 4-3, but in 1926, 5-2, and 1927, 7-0, the Navy garnered the laurels, winning every match in the competition last year. All officers and enlisted men of the Navy and Marine Corps on active duty are eligible for the team which will consist of ten members.

U. S. EQUESTRIAN TEAM TRAINS.

Rye, N. Y. (Special).—Seventeen mounts will be taken to Europe by the U. S. equestrian team, headed by Brig. Gen. W. C. Short, U. S. A., now in training here for the Olympics. This year the United States is determined to make a strong bid for honors in the mounted events. As the 1924 team failed to place because it had only two entries available after the other two mounts went lame in the cross-country events, this year a carefully selected and more numerous string of mounts is undergoing schooling. Big Regatta on Tuesday

Poughkeepsie (Special).—The various crew entries in the intercollegiate regatta which will be held June 19, are busy tuning up for the event which will help determine the U. S. Olympic representation in this sport.

The Navy varsity has drawn No. 1 lane, and should win the race if it is in the same excellent condition previous Navy crews have been for this event. Navy has won this blue-ribbon classic three times since 1921. The University of Washington has also won it three times and Columbia University captured the honors last year. Prior to last year, Columbia had not won the race since 1895.

The Navy Plebe crew met with a mishap on June 9 while at practice, a part of the bottom being ripped out of the shell when it struck a submerged rock. "Buck" Walsh, the Plebe crew coach, ordered the oarsmen to pull for shore. The damage was repaired in time for the evening workout.

Plan Army Relief Carnival

October 4-6 has been set as the date of the second annual Army Relief Carnival, to be held at Washington Barracks this fall. Plans for making this year's carnival a greater success than that of last are well under way. Proceeds of the affair will go to the Army Relief Society.

One of the features this fall will be the exhibit section for which plans are now being made. The committee in charge of exhibits is: Lt. Col. J. S. Chambers, Q. M. C., chairman; Maj. L. A. O'Donnell, Cav.; Thompson Lawrence, Inf.; E. J. Dawley, F. A.; O. L. Spiller, C. A. C.; 1st Lts. F. E. Seiff, A. C.; J. M. McMillin, C. W. S.; Maj. J. E. Easton, M. C.; D. O. Elliott, C. E.; 1st Lt. Geo. L. Back, S. C.; Capt. J. L. Hatcher, O. D.

This committee will hold their first meeting sometime during the coming week. Col. Chambers, chairman, says that the exhibit this year will be a knock-out—bigger and better than ever. Col. Chambers stated:

"While I have only discussed the matter informally with the other members of the committee, most of them were on the job last year and I can assure you that the exhibits this year will be an eye-opener to the Army as well as to the general public."

"So far as plans for the Quartermaster Corps exhibit are concerned, among other exhibits will be a textile exhibit which will show cotton in various processes of manufacture from the boll in the field to the completed garment, with an exhibition of all of the various fabrics used by the Quartermaster Corps in which cotton is a factor. The same with reference to wool; our silk exhibit will show silk from the silk worm to the completed products; although the Army does not use much silk, we have a few articles, such as flags, made from silk. We hope to arrange the same sort of an exhibit for leather products showing all processes from the green hides to completed products—leggings, shoes, etc. We will have also the famous White House carriages."

National Guard MARYLAND

OBITUARIES

Announcement of deaths should be addressed to Editorial Office, Army and Navy Journal, Architects Building, Washington, D. C.

MRS. CLARA WALES ROOT, wife of Elihu Root, died June 8, 1928, at the family home on Fifth Avenue, New York City. She was 74. Mr. Root is 83. They had been married for 50 years.

The wife of the former New York Senator, Secretary of War and Secretary of State had been ill for two years with arthritis. Funeral services were held Monday at 10 a. m., at Clinton, N. Y., her husband's birthplace.

In addition to Mr. Root, the following sons and daughters survive: Elihu, Jr., a New York attorney; Edward W. Root, of Clinton, and Mrs. U. S. Grant, 3rd, wife of Lt. Col. Grant, U. S. A., a grandson of the Civil War general. All were at her bedside when she died.

Mrs. Root belonged to a family which had been prominent for nearly 300 years in the history of New England and New York. She was the last surviving member. Its American founder, Nathaniel Wales, a Puritan, came over from England in 1645 with Richard Mather, first of the American Mathers. Her father, the late Salem Howe Wales, was for years managing editor of the Scientific American and a leader of the Republican Party in New York State.

deeply appreciative of the assistance rendered it by the women of the Army, whose suggestions concerning officers' quarters and their arrangements proved of inestimable value.

The uniform problem for the Army is one that is causing us deep concern and is being intensively studied. We are required by law to dispose of the surplus war stocks on hand by issue and are diligently seeking a solution to improve the appearance of the uniforms issued. The discussion of the dress uniform throughout the Army has disclosed many shades of opinion. There seems to be unanimity on one point. That is, that the present uniform be improved to increase the morale of the enlisted personnel. To this end, the Quartermaster Corps is interested in all experiments with fast dyes, etc., and is open to all suggestions for improvement.

The Flying Cadets now have an excellent and distinctive uniform of slate blue, which the Quartermaster Corps planned and developed with the cooperation of civilian tailoring experts. With the means at hand, I am sure the Corps could produce a uniform for the Army which would meet with approval.

I have not touched on the multitude of other projects which are part of the accomplishments of the Corps. The record made by it in the issue of flood relief supplies during the past year will stand as a shining example of what the "Army does in peace." In every branch of endeavor of the Army, the Corps has consistently cooperated with other arms and will continue to do so. The Quartermaster Corps is maintained for the sole purpose of providing for the needs of the Army and we will do our best to accomplish that result.

Interesting Service Women

Mrs. William C. Houghton

ONE of the most talented artists in Service circles is Mrs. Florence Vrooman Houghton, wife of Major William C. Houghton, U. S. A., of Fort Leavenworth, Kans. Mrs. Houghton has always been intensely interested in drawing and painting, but it was not until she and Major Houghton were stationed in Washington that she determined to devote herself to the realization of her ambition to be an artist. There she studied four years, going all day at the Corcoran Gallery of Art and then receiving instruction from Cameron Burnside while he was in the United States. While in Washington her pictures were in exhibitions at the Auditorium, the Burnside Studios, the Art Club and many private exhibits, and her work made a very favorable impression on those familiar with art work.

Quite an interesting picture of Mrs. Houghton appeared in the graphic section of the Washington Sunday Star of June 6, 1926. There was a page of this section devoted to artists painting in Washington, and the fact that her photograph was included in this group of well-known artists proves conclusively that the merit of her work has been recognized by the art critics. This gifted Service matron does both portraits and landscapes, and has said she prefers to paint flowers, which are a hobby with her, but her portraits have received the highest praise. She has been very busy painting children on the post at Fort Leavenworth. In a short time she and the Major are going to Fort Sill, where Mrs. Houghton will have commissions for several pictures of Fort Sill scenes. She recently delivered a most interesting talk to the Fort Leavenworth Woman's Club on "Art Appreciation"—a subject which is close to her heart.

Mrs. Houghton comes from a long line of distinguished ancestors and is a direct descendant of Heinrich Vrooman who came to America from Holland in 1656, settling in the Mohawk Valley. She is a member of the Army and Navy Chapter, D. A. R., and during the War was Chairman of the Comfort Kit Department of the Minneapolis Chapter.

(Next week the Army and Navy Journal will print a personality sketch of Mrs. Walter C. Short, wife of Brig. Gen. Short, U. S. A.)

Mrs. Schierloh are receiving high praise for their management of this social function. From 6 p. m. to 8:30 p. m., the Patecock Inn orchestra furnished appropriate music. The orchestra came on again at 10 p. m. and played until midnight. During the intermission of music bridge was played, at which prizes were won by Mrs. Johnson, Davidson, Schierloh, McMahon, Mr. Reese and Mr. McMahon. There were present, accompanied by their wives, Wm. Offr. G. O. Weddings

A WEDDING of special military interest was that of Miss Ruth Marcus, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Samuel Marcus, U. S. A., of the Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco, Cal., and Lt. Sidney Lee Douthit, U. S. A., of the Twenty-third Infantry, Fort Sam Houston, Texas, which took place at 8:30 p. m., June 6, 1928, in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, San Antonio, Texas. A distinguished assemblage of army folk witnessed the impressive ceremony, which was read by Rev. William T. Capers, rector of the church.

The altar of the quaint little church, which has been the scene of innumerable army weddings, was adorned with waxen gladioli and lighted by Gothic tapers in four seven-branch wrought-iron candelabra, placed effectively against a background of gracefully swaying palms. A pathway of candle-light down the center aisle was formed by 25 waxen tapers tied with snowy tulle, rising from wrought-iron candlesticks.

The bride's gown was a Paul Poiret model of satin and real lace. The filmy veil of tulle was arranged in graceful folds from a cap of pearls and tulle studded with orange blossoms. She carried roses and lilies of the valley arranged in shower effect. Her attendants were gowned alike, taffeta frocks, each of a different hue. Miss Mildred Lynch, the maid of honor, wore turquoise blue, Miss Rebecca Lynch in green, Miss Elizabeth Shuffelbarger in pink and Miss Ruth McDaniel in yellow. All wore picture hats of flesh-colored horsehair with streamers of velvet to match their frocks, and carried pink rosebuds. The flower girls, Phil and Mary Jane Bowles, wore orchid taffeta frocks.

Lt. Paul Hamilton was the best man, with Lt. Kenneth Kinsler, Lt. Francis Johnson, Lt. Andrew J. Schriever as groomsmen and Lt. H. M. Grizzard, Lt. William Dean and Lt. Genault as ushers. As the bride and bridegroom left the church, they formed an archway with their sabers, according to the time-honored army custom.

A reception at the Fort Sam Houston Officers' Club followed. The bride's cake was a mammoth confection embossed with the infantry insignia, crossed sabers, in blue and white, the infantry colors. The bride cut the cake with her husband's saber. Mrs. D. P. Murphy presided at the cake table. Others assisting were Mrs. John Lynch and Mrs. J. R. Bowles, Lt. and Mrs. Douthit left later for Galveston, the bride wearing a dark blue georgette ensemble with blouse of beige. LISTED among the brilliant socials of Fort Huachuca was the barbecue given by Lt. Col. and Mrs. Stanley Koch in a lively celebration of Lt. Col. Koch's birthday last Sunday evening, at the target range camp, just when the afternoon shadows were beginning to lengthen. One hundred glimmering Japanese lanterns made a most pleasing moonlight scene. The birthday cake was 56 inches in diameter and held an improvised corral decoration of celluloid horses and hurdles, centered by an attractive American flag. Navajo rugs covered the bales of hay that were used as seats around the tarpaulins for dancing. The out-of-town guests were Greenway Albert, Tombstone, and Miss Jane Ryder, Tucson, the week-end guest of Col. and Mrs. Koch. At the conclusion of the barbecue feast, the evening was spent in dancing to the 10th Cavalry Orchestra music.

THE AIDE PAID

A short time ago the aide to one of our general officers, driving at night, was blinded by the headlights of an approaching car and ran into a farm wagon carrying a family, but no lights. He stood suit and lost the decision. Appealed and lost again though local laws required all vehicles to carry lights at night. Due to his associations, personal and official, he had the very best advice and strong military influences to back him. Nevertheless for a long and wearisome period his monthly income was reduced by large partial payments on this judgment, court costs and attorney's fees, in addition to which he had to take leave three times to appear in a court of an adjoining state where the accident occurred.

He called on us later to protect him against personal liability, as well as every other coverage he had heard about.

What car do you own? Have you personal liability protection?

Write us for particulars.

Financial Digest

By a Market Expert.

AN increase in retail trade was reported for the month of May by the Federal Reserve Board this week. The Board stated:

Retail trade in May was larger than in the corresponding month of last year, according to preliminary reports to the Federal reserve system by department stores, mail-order houses and chain stores. Sales of 525 department stores were 4 per cent larger and sales of five-and-ten cent chain stores and of mail-order houses were larger, respectively, by 13 per cent and 19 per cent. The increase over last year reflects in part the fact that May of this year contained one more business day; average daily sales of department stores were about the same as in May of 1927, while those of mail-order houses and chain stores were larger.

Sales of department stores were larger than in May of last year at 334 of the total 525 reporting firms and increases were indicated by stores in all Federal reserve districts. In the New York, Chicago, and Minneapolis districts, reported increases amounted to more than 5 per cent and were larger than in any of the other districts. The smallest increases, as compared with a year ago, were in the Boston and Philadelphia districts, where sales were from one to 1.5 per cent larger than in May, 1927.

Snelling Chapel Dedicated

Ft. Snelling (Special).—Five years of effort by the Fort Snelling garrison were rewarded Sunday in the formal opening and dedication of the new Fort Snelling Memorial Chapel which has been erected and furnished at a cost of approximately $100,000. The opening of the building not only provides the garrison with an adequate place of worship but also with a community and recreation center which, it is felt, will aid greatly in maintaining a high state of morale. The dedication ceremonies were participated in by the entire garrison and some 5,000 visitors from the Twin Cities, and other cities of the Northwest, emphasizing the fact that the chapel is in reality the gift of the entire section in which Fort Snelling is located to the Army.

At the opening services in the new building, June 10, the sermon was given by Col. Easterbrook, Chief of Chaplains who came from Washington for the occasion. The music was by a choir composed entirely of officers and ladies of the garrison. The formal dedicatory exercises took place in the afternoon; the address for the occasion being given by Governor Theodore Christianson, of Minnesota. Other services on the dedicatory program were held Sunday evening and others are scheduled for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of this week; the several services being in charge of various organizations which have assisted materially in the construction of the new structure.

The new building, constructed entirely from native limestone such as was used in the construction of the original stone fort which was located only a short distance away, and the round tower of which still stands after 108 years, includes not only the main chapel which is designed in the style of an old English cathedral, but contains as well, spacious Sunday school rooms, a well furnished library, a recreation hall with facilities for Sunday school and society programs and amateur theatricals, a completely furnished kitchen, and ample cloak rooms, office for the Post Chaplain, and other facilities.

Lt. R. O. White, Q. M. C., with reference to this shortage recommended a stoppage of $724.51 against the pay of the sergeant. The sergeant protested that no action of his had resulted in any loss, that he had been acquitted by courtmartial after full hearing, and asked that the record of trial and survey report be reviewed together. The War Department replied that the fact of acquittal by a courtmartial had no bearing upon the survey. At the trial the Department made no defense and the court awarded the decree.

R., who first extended his enlistment at Port au Prince, Haiti, is not entitled to travel allowance at five cents per mile under the act of September 22, 1922, 42 Stat. 1021, for the distance between the two places, the usual route of travel being by water.

A-23151. (S.) Blood transfusions. The Act of February 9, 1927, 44 Stat. 1066, authorizing payment to members of the military establishment for furnishing blood for transfusion to patients in a Government hospital and authorizing and validating expenditures thereto made to persons in the Government service, does not authorize payment from appropriated funds for blood transfusions furnished prior to the date of the act when not previously paid for nor when paid for from the patients' private funds.

A-22278. (S.) Enlistment allowance—United States Naval Reserve. Section 11 of the Act of February 28, 1925, 43 Stat. 1083, giving members of the Naval Reserve when employed on active duty the pay and allowances provided for members of the Regular Navy, does not authorize the payment of an enlistment allowance under Section 10 of the Act of June 10, 1922, 42 Stat. 630, to one enlisting in the Naval Reserve. 81 MS Comp. Dec. 989.

A-23100. (S.) Army—Enlisted man—Transportation on discharge. Where an enlisted man was discharged June 12, 1899, at Manila, P. I., and did not avail himself of the transportation provided for sea travel to San Francisco, Calif., there is no authority for the payment of travel pay or commutation of subsistence.

A-9888. (Reconsideration). Appropriations—Deficiency—Settlement of claims. Where a general practice prevailed in the Navy Department prior to February 11, 1925, of assigning officers to duty on naval transports with orders of detachment and assignment to other duty on arrival at a named destination, when in fact the officer was assigned to the vessel for passage and on a showing of the true situation entitled to mileage and where, if all such claims were paid a deficiency might have been created in the mileage appropriations of the Department has failed to reply to requests for information as to the true situation no claims for mileage under such orders will be allowed unless and until the Department has furnished the requisite information on all claims reported to it so that responsibility for incurring the deficiency may be definitely fixed for the purposes of section 3679, Revised Statutes, as amended.

Mileage—Navy officer. Where an officer of the Navy was, prior to February 11, 1925, assigned to duty on a naval transport with orders of detachment upon arrival at a named destination and assignment to other duty, a claim for mileage on the ground the assignment was for passage and not for duty will not be allowed in the absence of a report from the Navy Department that the orders did not, in fact, show the true situation. Where such reports have been uniformly refused in the cases of all claimants no claims will be allowed until all requests for reports in such cases are complied with.

A-23111. (S.) Retainer pay increase to members of the Fleet Naval Reserve on account of credit for extraordinary heroism. The provision in the Act of August 29, 1916, 39 Stat. 590, authorizing ten per centum increase of retainer pay to transferred members of the Fleet Naval Reserve "who may be credited with extraordinary heroism in the line of duty" contemplated such recognition of an act of heroism as then provided by law in Section 1407, Revised Statutes, as amended by the act of March 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1099, and where the record does not show an award prior to Feb. 4, 1919, of a medal of honor for extraordinary heroism as provided in Section 1407, Revised Statutes, as amended, right to such increase of retainer pay does not accrue.

A-23156. (S.) Quarters allowance—Army enlisted man in hospital, sick not in line of duty. An enlisted man in the Army in hospital on account of sickness not in line of duty is entitled to continue to receive quarters allowance under the Act of April 15, 1926, 44 Stat. 257.
